The Chronicle of Higher Education

Exciting news, CCC faculty and staff! The Library has purchased access to The Chronicle of Higher Education for you that is available on campus and off campus. Access is also available to all CCC students.

To access the The Chronicle on campus, simply go to Chronicle.com for complete access. If you’re off campus, go to Chronicle.com and click on Log In in the top right hand corner. Then create a free account using your campus email address. It's that easy! Please let us know if you have any questions about this new service.

14th Annual Library Research Award

And the winner is...

Anthony Christian

The winning paper was titled “The Source” and was written for Maryanne Felter’s Art 102 class. The project also included a unique tri-fold poster.

Anthony won $250 and his name will appear on a plaque in the Auburn campus library.

Congratulations!!
In the 2016-2017 academic year the Auburn campus library opened up two group study/conference rooms for students. The Law Collection was relocated to the lower level of the library, repurposing the Law room as the TLC: Think, Learn, Create room. Also, the juvenile book collection was relocated to a new open space, allowing the library to redesign the space as the Large Group Study Room. Both rooms feature plenty of seating for groups, a white board, and a computer. A DVD player and large screen TV are also provided in the TLC. The rooms are available on a first come, first served basis, but may be reserved in advance. In addition, several computers and study spaces have been added for student use throughout the library.

The Auburn campus library is also preparing for the creation of a Learning Commons. The Library and the Center for Academic Success will merge their resources and services into a unified center to promote seamless academic support to Cayuga Students. In preparation for that initiative, the library completed a large project in the summer of 2017, removing over 16,000 outdated and unused print materials from the collection. This has opened up new space to support student success, and has paved the way for future construction.

Librarians Holly Kuhl and Sara Davenport collaborated on the paper, Evolution to Hybrid: Redesigning a Community College Library’s Research Skills Course. Their paper has been accepted for presentation at the International Conference on Embedded Education and Instruction of New Models of Library Service, to be held in Beijing, China in November 2017. The paper will later be published in the conference proceedings. This conference will be the fourth in the series of the International Conference on Library Cooperation and Resource Sharing.
